“ We feel so fortunate that we were referred to GIVF. With their help we were blessed with a beautiful baby girl. The doctors and staff were very professional and compassionate. FERTILITY PRESERVATION

Egg and embryo freezing provide the reassurance that you can start your family when you're ready and not feel pressured to start having children right away. Freezing your eggs or embryos gives you the benefit of time to achieve your goals before you start your parenting journey.

Who Should Consider Egg Freezing?

People may postpone starting a family for a myriad of reasons including taking the time to travel, build their careers, continue their education, or even just waiting to find the right partner. Elective egg freezing is also an excellent option for individuals about to undergo various medical treatments such as gynecological surgery, gender affirming hormone therapy, or cancer treatments.

Why Choose GIVF for Your Egg Freezing?

Leaders in the industry, our expert embryologists train clinics across the nation on our egg freezing processes and best practices. Just as important as being able to freeze your eggs, it is crucial to find a clinic with high success rates in thawing the eggs for your future use. Our lab team has a highly successful thaw rate, so you can be assured a better chance of using your eggs when you're ready.

REPRODUCTIVE GENETIC SERVICES

Helping our patients have healthy babies is our priority. In addition to providing a full range of fertility treatments, we offer comprehensive genetics services such as preconception planning, prenatal diagnosis pregnancy screenings, and preimplantation genetic testing.

Through our high-level testing and evaluation, our reproductive geneticist and our licensed and certified genetic counselor guide hopeful parents through the often-intimidating concerns of potential birth defects, hereditary diseases, genetic disorders, and genetic causes of recurrent miscarriages.

Our team assists patients who desire genetic testing before conception, during fertility treatments, during the first 6 months of pregnancy, and through their family planning journey.

At Genetics & IVF Institute, we are committed to making the dream of building a family as accessible as possible, so we offer a wide range of financial packages and discounts. We also accept most major insurances and partner with several financing companies to give our patients as many options as we can. We also offer discounts for first responders and military patients.

Our financial counselors assist our patients in determining the best options. We guide patients through the process, help them navigate insurance benefits, and assist them with understanding applications for financing options.

GIVF makes building your family as stress-free as possible by providing compassion, knowledge, and guidance as we help you navigate your financial options.
